HONORARY DEGREE
STANLEY H. SCHUMAN
DOCTOR OF LAWS

Dr. Stanley Schuman, the father of agricultural medicine in South Carolina, has been described by colleagues as a true renaissance man and a pioneer in agromedicine in the state.

Recognized by medical and agricultural professionals as an international expert and leader in his field, Dr. Schuman is medical director of the agromedicine program of Clemson University and the Medical University of South Carolina. He also is Professor of Family Medicine and Pediatrics at the medical university.

He is widely respected for his expertise in the health effects of agricultural chemicals and, as such, his contributions have led to greater public understanding of the scientific facts on issues involving the safety of agricultural products.

Years ago Dr. Schuman realized the necessity for science and reason to triumph over misguided emotion and fear in confronting issues of disease, pesticides, and human health. Accordingly, he developed, founded, and currently sustains an agromedicine program which provides the maturity of judgment and scientific foundation necessary to address these problems.

It is the first such state-funded, inter-university program of its kind in the nation, linking Dr. Jere Brittain of Clemson and Dr. Schuman as co-coordinators. Because of his pioneering work, Dr. Schuman was asked to appear before the Agriculture Committee of Congress to assist the U.S. Department of Agriculture in developing agromedicine programs throughout the nation, linking land-grant and medical campuses in each state.

Dr. Schuman has achieved high distinction in service to South Carolina's farm families, agricultural workers, employees in associated industries, and to the consumers of agricultural products. In addition to the medical consultations he provides to the state's citizens and their health care providers, he is a popular speaker on agricultural medicine to agricultural, medical, and public audiences across the state.

In 1991 he established a network of volunteer advisory physicians in each county, an invaluable resource for extension, regulatory, and many others. He and his associates at the medical university and at Clemson have conducted an unprecedented educational campaign through county meetings, media presentations, workshops, and classes for medical students. The results are clearly improved confidence by consumers in the quality and safety of the food supply and heightened awareness by farmers and the agribusiness community for the concerns of consumers and the health and safety of farmers and farm workers.

His efforts not only have enhanced agricultural productivity, but also the quality of life for all South Carolinians as well, and have contributed greatly to a better understanding within the medical community of some of the problems which can arise because of agricultural operations.

He is founding editor of the international Journal of Agromedicine and has published more than 200 peer-reviewed articles in national and international journals. Most of his articles focus on the preventative aspects of environmental and occupational medicine.

We hold Stanley Schuman and his lifetime achievements and service to all of the citizens of South Carolina in the highest esteem, and it is a distinct privilege to honor him with the presentation of the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws.

PAUL L. TOBEY
DOCTOR OF LAWS

Clemson alumnus and benefactor Paul Tobey enjoyed a successful and outstanding career as a corporate executive in the chemical industry.

He was born in Hampton, New Hampshire, and earned his Bachelor of Science degree at Clemson in 1935, majoring in textile chemistry and dyeing. He first worked as a physical chemist with Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, New York, before joining the Industrial Dyestuff Company, a business his father had established in East Providence, Rhode Island.

During World War II at the siege of Myitkyina in Burma during the summer of 1944, Capt. Tobey was a liaison officer with a Chinese battalion. He directed a penetration through the Japanese lines. When discovered by the Japanese, the battalion set up a defense perimeter and, for three days, withstood Banzai attacks. The unit then was ordered to withdraw, since supporting units were unable to join them. The battalion made a successful night withdrawal. Capt. Tobey was decorated with the Bronze Star Medal.

After the war, Mr. Tobey returned to Industrial Dyestuff as vice president and later was named president of the company, a position he held until retirement. He developed several chemical patents, replaced the manufacture of dyes with that of specialty chemicals, particularly for photographic processes, and he established a wholly-owned subsidiary, Nilok Chemical Company, in Memphis, Tennessee. Mr. Tobey is referenced in Patent Office and in Chemical Abstracts.

While managing a developing business, he also was caring for a growing family. In 1939 he had married Sarah Beaudrot of Greenwood, whom he had met during his Clemson days when she was a student at Lander College. They have four children.

Friends know Paul Tobey as a modest man of high moral character and integrity who tends to give others credit for many of his accomplishments. He feels greatly indebted to Clemson, not only for the education he received, but for setting him on his life's path with a firm foundation of basic American values which were reinforced at Clemson.

He exemplifies those qualities which Clemson holds dear -- integrity, intellect, leadership, personal achievement, and service to his country and its people.

In 1985 during the golden anniversary reunion of his graduating class, he and his wife established the Tobey-Beaudrot Professorship in Chemistry. It was funded by investment income from his gift to the Clemson University Foundation and, eventually, from four unitrusts he set up through the Foundation to provide a salary supplement and research support for the professorship.

This endowed professorship in chemistry made it possible for Clemson to attract and retain a world renowned scholar to the faculty and put Clemson high on the list of major programs in chemistry. Dr. Darryl D. DesMartea was selected as the first recipient of the professorship.

It is a most significant occasion when Clemson University recognizes and honors one of its own sons with the presentation of an honorary doctorate for eminent achievement and meritorious contributions to the institution. We hold Paul Tobey and his achievements in the highest esteem, and it is a distinct privilege to honor him with the presentation of the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws.

Professor Mary Taylor Haque

Mary Haque is an award-winning professor and registered landscape architect whose primary interests are teaching undergraduate students and landscape design.

She has been teaching in the Department of Horticulture at Clemson since 1978 and has taught courses in landscape appreciation, plant identification, landscape design, landscape implementation, senior seminar, and senior honors research. She has coordinated the internship program and advised 33 undergraduate students on independent study projects from 1981 to 1995.

A strong advocate of the concept of community service and environmental stewardship, she and her students have designed more than 140 projects including residential, business, institutional, recreational and urban restoration related projects across the state.

Professor Haque serves on numerous committees and is an active member of the American Society of Landscape Architects, the American Society of Horticultural Science, the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture, and the Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture. She and her students have presented more than 40 papers at professional society meetings.

Professor Haque is the author of numerous journal articles, brochures, and abstracts and also serves as a book reviewer for AVI Publishing Company, the University of North Carolina Press, and NACTA Journal. She also has graded the American Society of Landscape Architect's licensing exams, served on the South Carolina State Landscape Architects Advisory Council and chaired SCASLA committees.

Her many honors and awards include a teaching award of merit in 1990 from the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture, the Visions for Youth Community Service Award in 1993 from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, and the 1994 South Carolina Governor's Professor of the Year Award.

Dr. Jerome V. Reel

Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr., Senior Vice Provost and professor of history, was born and reared in New Orleans where he acquired a taste for both opera and crayfish.

He has been a member of the Clemson University faculty for the past 33 years and has remained an active teacher since then. He was educated at Tulane, Southern Mississippi, and Emory University from which he earned his Ph.D. in Medieval British History.

Dr. Reel was named Vice Provost and Dean of Undergraduate Studies in 1979, and in that capacity has directed three inaugurations and the Clemson Centennial.

In other activities, Jerry Reel has been active with Fort Hill Presbyterian Church in Clemson, where he serves as Elder. Also, he has been president of the National Opera Association, the Association of University Summer Sessions, and national president of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

On campus, he works with a number of student groups and is an honorary member of Tiger Brotherhood, Blue Key, Golden Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, and the Order of Omega. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi Scholastic Honorary Fraternity and the Medieval Academy of America.

His wife, Edmee, has a master's degree from Clemson and all three of their children are Clemson alumni, as are his two sons-in-law. There are two grandsons awaiting their eventual matriculation at Clemson as well.

The Academic Procession

The Academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, trustees, and honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton, described under University Regalia.

Following the marshal is the college banner bearer. Each banner is a combination of colors that declare the disciplines taught in that college. These colors, which were established by the American Council on Education, are as follows:

College	Colors	Discipline
Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences	Maize Brown Golden Yellow	Agriculture Forestry Life Sciences
Architecture, Arts and Humanities	Lilac Brown White Dark Blue	Architecture Arts Humanities Philosophy
Business and Public Affairs	Drab Copper Peacock Blue Cream	Accounting and Business Economics Public Administration Social Sciences
Engineering and Science	Orange Golden Yellow	Engineering Science
Health, Education and Human Development	Light Blue Apricot Cream	Education Nursing Social Sciences
Library	Lemon Yellow	Library
Staff	Purple and Orange	Academic Support

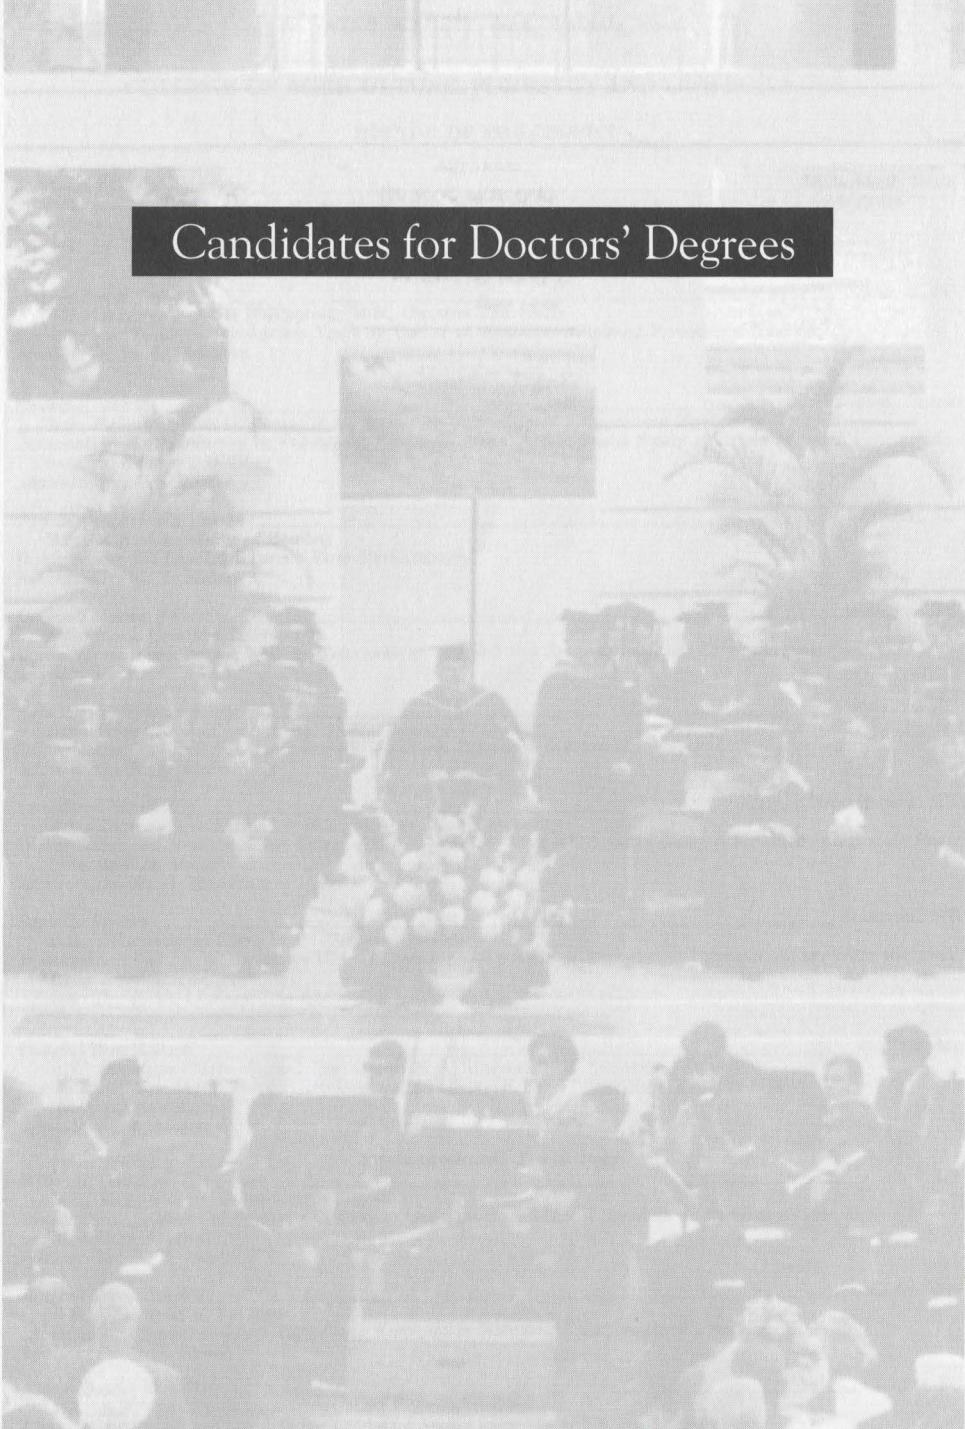

Collegiate faculty follow their banner in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions.

The academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from United States' institutions are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of Philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelor's gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Masters' gowns, also black, are longer than bachelors. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctors' gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels and the sleeves are marked by three velvet bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvet in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university's colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the type of discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelors' smallest, masters' larger, and doctors' quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the degree is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. The most frequently seen is dark blue, which designates the doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) degree. Finally, the color of the hood's lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees, and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical, or military regalia as set forth by their professions. They are preceded by the University Marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the University mace. At the ceremony's close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

HONORS MEDALLION

Each graduate having earned Senior Departmental Honors will be wearing the Calhoun College Honors Medallion on an orange and purple ribbon. This medallion has been made possible by an Honors endowment established by Mrs. Katherine Inabinet Vickery of Columbia, South Carolina, to honor the memory of her husband and Clemson graduate, the late B. C. Inabinet.

The University Regalia

The University mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the University Marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the President into the assembly. The mace rests before the President's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic clublike shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's prehistory. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with the seal of the University in gold and the University colors represented by insets of cornelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The Presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the University President may wear it, and while wearing it he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staffs of office" which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the seal of the University and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C. Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C. C. Wilson of Clemson University.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807–1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828–1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affaires to Belgium, 1844–1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has six major academic units. These are the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences, the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, the College of Business and Public Affairs, the College of Engineering and Science, the College of Health, Education and Human Development, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Computing Sciences Accreditation Board, Council on Accreditations of the National Recreation and Park Association, National Architectural Accrediting Board, National Association of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, National League for Nursing, and Society of American Foresters.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.

Note: Candidates appearing in this program are not certified graduates. Likewise, academic honors designations are based upon performance prior to final grades. Both certification of graduation and honors designations must come from the Registrar of the University.
