DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

GEORGE B. HARTZOG, JR.

George Hartzog, Jr., rose from humble beginnings as a farm boy in the rural South Carolina low country to make an impact on the face of America's landscape through a distinguished career with the Department of the Interior and the National Park Service.

As director of the National Park Service for nearly nine years, Mr. Hartzog oversaw the agency during a time of tremendous growth. In those years between January 1964 and December 1972 the Park Service made a smooth transition from a quiet bureau, known mainly for the grand landscapes of the West, to one that has become a part of the lives of Americans who may never have an opportunity to visit those great Western resources.

His career as an attorney and administrator with the Department of the Interior began in 1946 when he was employed by the Bureau of Land Management. A new assignment in January 1959 brought national prominence to Mr. Hartzog.

He was named superintendent of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial at St. Louis, Missouri. The National Park Service has been designated as the executive agency to develop this massive project on a 91-acre site on the riverfront. The focal point of the Memorial is the magnificent Gateway Arch.

Secretary of the Interior Donald Hodel has said of Mr. Hartzog's role in the building of the Gateway Arch:

"Without your determination and perseverance, one of America's most stunning landmarks might still be a brilliant, but unbuilt plan, as it was for two decades before your leadership brought it from the drawing board to reality."

Visitors to that engineering marvel enjoy the hospitality of the Visitor Center located underground below the Arch. Last May the National Park Service dedicated that Visitor Center in Mr. Hartzog's honor, citing him as "one of the great builders of the National Park System."

Friends paid him a high tribute on that occasion:

"In your career at the National Park Service and the Department of the Interior, you left an indelible and historic mark on the legacy which this great nation bequeaths to those who follow our generation. You dream of arches, and they materialize in St. Louis. You propose new designations for the nation's public and private lands and Congress, in response, creates an incredibly rich treasure of national monuments, parks, seashores, scenic rivers, trails, urban recreational opportunities and wilderness areas.

"Your record is one of significant contributions to our generation's finest statement as a people: what we are, what we respect, what we preserve, and where we are going."

It is a special privilege to honor this good friend of Clemson University, and to express our most sincere appreciation for all that he has done to preserve the natural beauty of this great land and to keep real meaning in the words "America the beautiful."

Clemson is proud to present the honorary Doctor of Humanities degree to George B. Hartzog, Jr.

HONORARY DEGREE

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

HARVEY BERNARD GANTT

The Honorable Harvey Gantt, twice Mayor of Charlotte, North Carolina, is a respected government leader and public servant, successful businessman and honor graduate of Clemson University.

Mr. Gantt, who has been described as the embodiment of the progressive spirit of the New South, was born in 1943 at Charleston, where his father worked as a mechanic in the Charleston shipyards. He was the only son among the family's five children.

Mr. Gantt attended Iowa State University for two years, then came to Clemson in 1963 to study architecture. He holds a special place in Clemson's history because of the circumstances of the time. Mr. Gantt was the first black student enrolled at Clemson, and the first to be enrolled at a previously all-white public institution in South Carolina.

He excelled in his studies, earning a B.A. degree and graduating with honors in 1965. He earned his master's degree in city planning from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1970.

Today he is a partner in Gantt-Huberman and Associates, an architectural and city planning firm which he established at Charlotte in 1971.

In 1974 a new dimension was added to his life when he entered the political arena. He was appointed to the Charlotte City Council by then-Mayor John Belk. Although he had been interested in politics since boyhood, this was the first office he had held. Mr. Gantt served on the Council until 1979 when he made an unsuccessful bid for the mayor's office, losing the Democratic nomination by a slim margin.

Two years later he entered the City Council race, winning a seat on the Council and garnering the highest number of votes. He served on the Council as Mayor Pro Tem and on November 8, 1983, defeated his Republican opposition to win the mayoral race.

The Charlotte News editorialized that the people had tapped an experienced public official for the very difficult job of leading a growing city. The paper said that Mr. Gantt had a track record of conscientious work, and in the past decade, both the quality of his personal leadership and the policy issues in which he has been involved have brought him support and respect.

Today Mr. Gantt is in his second term as Mayor of Charlotte, having won election last November 5. He and the new Council members were sworn in on December 2, and we wish his administration continued success.

Clemson University holds him and his achievements in the highest regard. It is a special privilege for all of us to honor him in this way.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,
That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,
And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;
And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.
