HONORARY DEGREE
PHILIP HUNTER PRINCE
DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Few names have been more closely associated with the history of Clemson University than that of Philip Prince.

His presidency for the past year caps a lifetime of service to Clemson, highlighted by leadership positions as life trustee, Campaign for Clemson Chairman, Clemson University Foundation President, and others.

He became president during a critical time in our history, with the University in the early stages of major restructuring, facing declining budgets and seeking a permanent president. In accepting, he set two conditions: that he forfeit his seat as a life trustee to avoid any conflict of interest and that he donate his salary to the Clemson University Foundation.

President Prince has provided outstanding leadership to the University, including completing academic and administrative restructuring so that fewer resources are devoted to administration and more to teaching and student needs. He has improved communications with faculty and staff and has been a strong advocate for Clemson and for all of higher education in South Carolina.

Mr. Prince served as chairman of the South Carolina Council of Presidents, and through editorials, appearances before legislative committees, television programs and speaking engagements throughout the state, sounded a consistent call for increased funding for higher education.

A 1949 Clemson graduate, Phil Prince believes that a university's diploma carries with it the responsibility and commitment to give back something for the education received. His own service to Clemson reflects his conviction in this philosophy.

He was recognized in 1989 for his corporate management expertise by his election as a Clemson life trustee. Last summer, he came "out of retirement" to accept the challenge of leading the University as acting president while a president was selected. On September 30, 1994 the Board removed the "acting" and named him the twelfth president of Clemson.

A scholarship athlete and four-year football letterman, Mr. Prince was co-captain of the undefeated and untied 1948 Clemson Tiger football team which defeated the University of Missouri 24-23 in the 1949 Gator Bowl. In the 1948 Big Thursday game with South Carolina, he blocked a fourth-quarter punt which produced the winning touchdown for Clemson. The Tigers won 13-7.

Since their marriage in 1950, his helpmate and strongest support has been Celeste Orr Prince of Rock Hill. He and Celeste have established a life scholarship for Clemson athletics. They also created the Celeste and Philip Prince Presidential Scholarship Endowment that will provide ten full scholarships for outstanding young people to attend Clemson.

Clemson has honored him many times for his distinguished service and countless contributions to Clemson and the people of South Carolina. These include the Alumni Distinguished Service Award (1983); President's Award (1987); Clemson Medallion, the University's highest public honor (1989); and the Institutional Advancement Award (1992).

It is a most significant occasion when Clemson University recognizes and honors one of its own with the presentation of an honorary doctorate for meritorious contributions to the institution. We hold Phil Prince and his achievements in the highest esteem, and it is a distinct privilege to honor him with the presentation of the Doctor of Humanities.

Coat of Arms

Designed by Clemson University graphic artist, Connie Floyd, the coat of arms represents the historic three-fold mission of this institution: teaching, research and service.

Pictured on the cover, the coat of arms is divided into three parts. The bottom contains a series of open books representing the concept of teaching as the basis of the land-grant university. The white of the books and the purple of the background designate the teaching mission of the University as it is achieved through undergraduate and graduate instruction.

The upper portion of the shield contains two sets of calipers and wheat sheaves illustrating the measurement system for research, as well as Clemson's tradition in agriculture and Extension. The three symbols — the books, calipers and wheat sheaves — also represent the humanities, technology and science.

The entire shield is joined by a small orange center shield bearing a white tiger mask symbolizing the abiding spirit of Clemson.

The crest is a gold palmetto tree, which emphasizes Thomas Green Clemson's desire that Clemson become "the people's university" for South Carolinians. It rises from a band of purple, orange, white and gold. The outer pair of colors, purple and gold, are the official colors of the University; the inner pair, orange and white, are Clemson's student colors.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affairs to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has ten major academic units. These are the College of Agricultural Sciences, the College of Architecture, the College of Commerce and Industry, the College of Education, the College of Engineering, the College of Forest and Recreation Resources, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Nursing, the College of Sciences, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board, National League for Nursing, Society of American Foresters, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.

Note: Candidates appearing in this program are not certified graduates. Likewise, academic honor designations are based upon performance prior to final grades. Both certification of graduation and honor designations must come from the Registrar of the University.
