Graduation Exercises
August 7, 1993
Clemson, South Carolina

For your convenience, a First Aid station is located at Portal O.

Littlejohn Coliseum is equipped with a fire alarm evacuation system. In the event of activation — as noted by sustained horns and flashing strobe lights — please proceed to the closest available exit. Remain outside the building until fire officials deem the building safe to re-enter.

No smoking is permitted in the seating area of Littlejohn Coliseum. Cigarette receptacles are provided around the outer concourse.

You are requested to refrain from loud expressions of pleasure for individual graduates. Such expressions frequently detract from the recognition due the next graduate in line.

Your cooperation is respectfully but urgently requested.

HONORARY DEGREE
CHARLES W. COKER
DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Charles W. Coker, distinguished South Carolinian, award-winning business executive and community leader, is Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sonoco Products Company, a Fortune 500 giant and one of the state's major industries.

Mr. Coker was raised in the Darlington County community of Hartsville, the location of Sonoco's corporate headquarters. He is a graduate of Woodberry Forest School in Virginia and received the Bachelor of Arts degree (1955) from Princeton University and a master's degree (1957) in business administration from the Harvard Business School.

Mr. Coker began full-time employment with Sonoco in 1958, was named Executive Vice President in 1966 and became President in 1970. In 1990 he was named Chairman of the Board and maintained the title and responsibilities of Chief Executive Officer.

Today's Sonoco Products Company evolved from modest beginnings around the turn of the century. It began as a South Carolina home-grown company in 1899, founded as Southern Novelty Company, a family-owned business, by Mr. Coker's great-grandfather, Major James Lide Coker. Working in a rented warehouse in Hartsville, the company's twelve employees manufactured paper cones used by the textile industry in the winding of yarn and threads.

Although still making textile cones, Sonoco has diversified its product line into scores of packaging products with a multitude of industrial and consumer applications. The company has become a global giant, with more than 250 plants on five continents and approximately 16,000 employees, some 3,000 of whom are in South Carolina.

During Mr. Coker's 22 years of leadership as President, sales of the company have grown from $125 million to more than $1.8 billion at the end of 1992. The company's 1992 Fortune 500 ranking in sales was 231st, in net earnings 149th, earnings as a percent of sales 127th, and as a percent of equity 104th.

In addition to his directorship at Sonoco, Mr. Coker also serves on the boards of NationsBank, Springs Industries, Carolina Power and Light Company, Sara Lee Corporation, American Forest and Paper Association, Palmetto Seed Capital Corporation, The University of Virginia Darden School Foundation, and Hollings Oncology Center.

Active in both civic and business affairs, he is a member of the Palmetto Business Forum, a past president of the Hartsville Rotary Club and the Pee Dee Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America. He is a recipient of the Silver Beaver Award for outstanding service to scouting.

Many times he has been honored by his peers for leadership and achievements in the business world. In 1985 he was named South Carolina Businessman of the Year by the S.C. Chamber of Commerce, and in 1991 he was inducted into the South Carolina Business Hall of Fame.

His leadership, dedication and commitment have provided industrial growth, job opportunities and other economic and social gains for South Carolina as well as for the country. Charlie Coker's numerous accomplishments have brought great credit to himself and to the State and are held in the highest regard by his friends and fellow South Carolinians. It is a privilege to honor him with the presentation of the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities.

BUTLER C. DERRICK, JR.
DOCTOR OF LAWS

The Honorable Butler C. Derrick, Jr., who represents South Carolina's Third Congressional District, is serving his 10th term in Congress.

Mr. Derrick, who first was elected to Congress in 1974, is a chief deputy whip, a leadership position which is the fifth most senior in the House leadership and helps set the legislative agenda and build coalitions for passage or defeat of major bills.

Congressman Derrick's appointment is the first time in 130 years that a South Carolinian has been named to a top leadership post in the U. S. House of Representatives.

As Vice Chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, he is involved in almost every piece of legislation debated on the floor of the House. This committee, considered one of the three most influential committees in the House, determines which legislation is considered as well as how and when it will be debated on the House floor.

He has long been a good friend to Clemson University and a strong supporter of Clemson's work to serve the textile industry, continuing education needs, and agricultural research and cooperative extension work.

Congressman Derrick won approval of funding for the National Textile Center to help U.S. textile makers be more competitive with markets overseas. The center is located at Clemson and at three other member institutions.

Congressman Derrick also secured a $1.5 million grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to equip the University's teleconferencing center in the planned continuing education and conference center. The grant will enable the new facility to serve as an "electronic classroom" by transmitting its classes around the world.

He attended the University of South Carolina and earned a law degree at the University of Georgia (1965). Four years later he was elected to the S. C. House of Representatives, the beginning of his long legislative career. He continued to practice law in Edgefield until he was elected to Congress in 1974.

Known by his colleagues as a congressman with a quiet operating style, Derrick often works behind the scenes to get things done. This legislative style and his moderate, conservative political philosophy are attributes which Derrick brings to his leadership position.

Now in his 19th year in the House of Representatives, Congressman Derrick has compiled an outstanding record of being a strong spokesman and advocate on matters and issues affecting his district and state.

It is a special privilege for Clemson University to honor this distinguished South Carolinian and American. We hold his achievements in the highest regard, and it is a pleasure to award him the honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

The Academic Procession

The Academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, Trustees, and honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton, described under University Regalia.

Following the marshal is the college banner bearer. Each banner is a combination of colors that declare the disciplines taught in that college. These colors, which were established by the American Council on Education, are as follows:

College	Colors	Discipline
Agriculture	Maize	Agriculture
Architecture	Brown	Fine Arts
	Lilac	Architecture
Commerce & Industry	Copper Drab	Economics Business
Education	Light Blue	Education
Engineering	Orange	Engineering
Forest & Recreation Resources	Russet	Forestry
	Sage Green	Recreation Education
Liberal Arts	Dark Blue White Cream	Philosophy Letters & Humanities Social Science
Library	Lemon	Library
Nursing	Apricot	Nursing
Sciences	Golden Yellow	Sciences
Staff	Purple & Orange	Academic Support

Collegiate faculty follow their banner in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions.

The academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from United States' institutions are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of Philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelors' gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Masters' gowns, also black, are longer than bachelors. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctors' gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels and the sleeves are marked by three velvet bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvet in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university's colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelors' smallest, masters' larger, and doctors' quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the discipline is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. Finally, the color of the hood's lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees, and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical, or military regalia as set forth by their professions. They are preceded by the University marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the University mace. At the ceremony's close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

The University Regalia

The University mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the University Marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the President into the assembly. The mace rests before the President's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic club-like shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's pre-history. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with the seal of the University in gold and the University colors represented by insets of cornelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The Presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the University President may wear it, and while wearing it he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staffs of office" which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the seal of the University and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C. Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C. C. Wilson of Clemson University.

Coat of Arms

Designed by Clemson University graphic artist, Connie Floyd, the coat of arms represents the historic three-fold mission of this institution: teaching, research and service.

Pictured on the cover, the coat of arms is divided into three parts. The bottom contains a series of open books representing the concept of teaching as the basis of the land-grant university. The white of the books and the purple of the background designate the teaching mission of the University as it is achieved through undergraduate and graduate instruction.

The upper portion of the shield contains two sets of calipers and wheat sheaves illustrating the measurement system for research, as well as Clemson's tradition in agriculture and Extension. The three symbols — the books, calipers and wheat sheaves — also represent the humanities, technology and science.

The entire shield is joined by a small orange center shield bearing a white tiger mask symbolizing the abiding spirit of Clemson.

The crest is a gold palmetto tree, which emphasizes Thomas Green Clemson's desire that Clemson become "the people's university" for South Carolinians. It rises from a band of purple, orange, white and gold. The outer pair of colors, purple and gold, are the official colors of the University; the inner pair, orange and white, are Clemson's student colors.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; but circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affairs to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry, and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has ten major academic units. These are the College of Agricultural Sciences, the College of Architecture, the College of Commerce and Industry, the College of Education, the College of Engineering, the College of Forest and Recreation Resources, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Nursing, the College of Sciences, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board, National League for Nursing, Society of American Foresters, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,
That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,
And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.
Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;
And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.
