HONORARY DEGREE

DOCTOR OF LAWS

REMBERT CONEY DENNIS

REMBERT CONEY DENNIS, statesman, public servant, conservationist, and civic leader, has devoted his entire adult lifetime to serving the people of South Carolina from the highest positions of responsibility in state government.

The awarding of this honorary degree is in recognition of all that his outstanding life of public service and achievement has meant to his native state and to a strong and progressive state government.

Born at Pinopolis in Berkeley County, Senator Dennis is a graduate of Furman University, attended law school at Georgetown University, and received his degree in law from the University of South Carolina in 1940.

The State may never have known Rembert Dennis as an outstanding state senator had it not been for two tragic events which befell the Dennis family when he was a teenager. Young Rembert Dennis had planned to study medicine, but an assassin's bullet and a fatal illness changed the course of his life and gave South Carolina one of its greatest statesmen.

Senator Dennis was only 15 years old when his father, also a state senator, was shot to death on the streets of Moncks Corner, victim of a political assassination. At the time, the elder Dennis was campaigning for reelection to the senate seat he had initially filled in 1904 upon the death of his father.

The following year, Senator Dennis' older brother, who was to have been the lawyer-politician of the family, died of pneumonia during an influenza epidemic. The Dennis family tradition of state government service also would have died in the wake of these tragic deaths, but Rembert Dennis was determined not to let that happen.

Refusing to yield to the criminal element which had killed his father, 23-year-old Rembert Dennis ran for and was elected to the State House of Representatives by a sizeable margin in 1938. When he ran for reelection in 1940, he finished even stronger than after his first campaign.

His next victory—both a political achievement and a personal triumph—came in 1942 when he won his first term in the South Carolina Senate and became the third generation of Dennises from Berkeley County to serve in the State Senate. He took his seat in January 1943 and has served continuously in the senate since then, for a total of 42 years in the General Assembly.

As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Senator Dennis presides over the senate's responsibility in shaping the State's budget each year. Through this chairmanship and his membership on the Budget and Control Board, Senator Dennis has been a staunch guardian of state government's fiscal integrity. His wisdom and leadership have helped protect South Carolina's Triple A credit rating in the nation's financial markets. He not only has been a proponent of operating state government on a balanced budget each year, but has protected the State from making long-term financial commitments which would have been difficult to manage in future years.

Senator Dennis unselfishly gives tremendous amounts of his time, talents, and abilities to fulfill his responsibilities which reach far beyond the normal duties of legislative service.

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

GUY STARR HUTCHINS

GUY STARR HUTCHINS, distinguished musician, pioneering music educator, and humanitarian, has devoted a lifetime to advancing the cause of music education and enjoyment.

The awarding of this honorary degree is in recognition of all that his exemplary life has meant to the cultural enrichment and growth of South Carolina and the region and his tremendous influence as a true humanitarian on the lives of all who have known him.

His extraordinary gifts for orchestral conducting, training orchestra and band musicians, his patience and understanding for the young, and his humanity and excellent character have influenced the making of music and musicians in South Carolina for decades.

Born at Spartanburg, Mr. Hutchins received his early musical training from his mother, who was a distinguished piano teacher. He attended Wofford College and then Clemson, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Arts and Sciences in 1928. As a Clemson student, he worked tirelessly to enrich the musical life of the community. He directed the band and glee club and organized and directed a small symphony orchestra. He also was a charter member of "The Jungaleers," a student jazz band.

After his Clemson graduation, Mr. Hutchins received a full scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. However, after one year of study, he was forced by the Depression to withdraw and return home. Since his return to South Carolina he has been a selfless and devoted "musical missionary," dedicating his life to the teaching of young musicians in a state which, though justly proud of its cultural heritage, had been, before Mr. Hutchins' time, far behind other parts of the country in musical training.

He founded and directed three symphony orchestras in the state: the Spartanburg Symphony, the Greenville Symphony, and the Florence Symphony. He was music director of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra in the late 1940s.

He again left his native state in 1958 for a few years when his steadfast belief in the brotherhood of all mankind nearly cost him his life. Mr. Hutchins, who was teaching music, directing school bands and one or two church choirs in Camden at the time, was almost beaten to death by a gang of hoodlums who were angry because he had mixed choirs of both races for the presentation of a large oratorio. The story made national headlines and letters of outrage and sympathy poured in from all over the country.

Mr. Hutchins went to New York where he joined the music faculty of Syracuse University. He came back to South Carolina after a few years and joined the music department of the University of South Carolina, retiring in 1975.

Through his founding of orchestras, building of bands, and teaching of music to countless young people, Mr. Hutchins has devoted a lifetime to helping others enjoy and appreciate music. He has been called the "Johnny Appleseed of Music in the Carolinas," going about the land developing and nurturing new musical life.

An unusually talented musician with a remarkable flair for playing countless instruments, he is an excellent conductor and composer as well. Mr. Hutchins has been an inspiring teacher throughout his life and virtually selfless in his concern for his students and the various musical organizations with which he was affiliated.

The University Regalia

The University mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the University Marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the President into the assembly. The mace rests before the President's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic club-like shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's pre-history. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with the seal of the University in gold and the University colors represented by insets of cornelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The Presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the University President may wear it, and while wearing it he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staffs of office" which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the seal of the University and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed young goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C. Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by Mr. C. C. Wilson of Clemson University.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; but circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affairs to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry, and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has ten major academic units. These are the College of Agricultural Sciences, the College of Architecture, the College of Education, the College of Engineering, the College of Forest and Recreation Resources, the College of Industrial Management and Textile Science, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Nursing, the College of Sciences, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board, National League for Nursing, Society of American Foresters, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
 Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
 Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,
That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,
And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale,
Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;
And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.
